Who is Lumcloon Energy Limited?

Offaly based Lumcloon Energy Limited, founded by local entrepreneur Nigel Reams, has agreed a partnership with South Korean energy company giant, Hanwha Energy Corporation, to develop two new 100MW sustainable energy projects in the Midlands.

How does Lumcloon energy work?

Lumcloon Energy stores excess energy from the national grid and boots it back into the national system when the demand arises. Shannonbridge B will cost EUR100 million to construct. Synchronous condensers allow greater control of electrical power on the grid, which can be advantageous.

What is Lumcloon energy & Hanwha energy doing?

Back in 2019 Lumcloon Energy joined forces with South Korea's Hanwha Energy to build, in Lumcloon and Shannonbridge, one of the largest battery storage power plants in Europe, storing enough electricity to power 100,000 homes as part of a EUR150 million electricity project.

When will Lumcloon energise?

It is on track to become operational in Q1 2021, with Shannonbridge to follow soon after, the spokesperson added. The energisation of Lumcloon follows Statkraft completing its 11MW Kerry battery storage project in Ireland in January 2020, lauding it as the first utility-scale battery storage project in the country.

Why did Nigel join Lumcloon energy?

Nigel brought together a team with complementary skills and experience who work together to realise his vision. Lumcloon Energy identified flexibility as a key component to address the changing needs of the evolving power systems, which are transitioning from fossil-based generation to renewable-based generation.
